I would like to put in a good word for XM satellite radio. I choose to listen to it and pay for the service they provide. AM and FM radio are free, but you have to listen to all of the extra commercials and talk to get to the music. If XM choosed to broadcast news and weather I still do not have to listen to it if I choose not to.

Free enterprise is the backbone of this country and I believe XM has just stepped radio "up a notch". Let the market and not the politicians decide the fate of satellite radio and its programing.
